Samet Surpasses Former Safety Record

Samet Corporation Passes 1,510 Days without a Lost Time Accident

GREENSBORO- Samet Corporation is celebrating a new safety record. On February 17, 2010 the company reached 1,510 days without a Lost Time Accident, surpassing a previous record of 1,509 days set in 2005.

Samet Corporation started their journey to safety excellence in 2001 and enhanced their program in 1003 when the company became a Building Star company. Executive management has a strong commitment to safety and has developed it as one of its core values along with quality, innovation, service and trust. That commitment filtered down through all aspects of Samet's business.

"Our project team refocused its efforts to maintain a strong safety presence on our project sites, said Samet Safety Director Bruce Jaworoski.

According to Jaworoski, the future of Samet's safety program is to focus safety efforts as a value based program.

"Using proven behavior models, we encourage safety leadership in all disciplines throughout the company, said Jaworoski. " Samet influences our employees and our subcontractors to attend and actively participate in daily meetings. We encourage a safety discussion in every meeting we have in our company that concentrate on people rather than statistics. We find ways to express care and respect for our employees and their experience on projects."
